PIRG Claims Druggists 'Unethical'

by Brad Mamon
Managing Editor

A D.C. Public Interest Research Group (PIRG) study on pharmaceutical practices in the GW area has found several pharmacies guilty of product adulteration, unethical substitutional practices and misbranding prescriptions.

The study's coordinator, GW senior Robert J. Gains, specifically named the Townhouse Pharmacy at 601-19th St., N.W., as using "unethical" practices and included it on PIRG's list of the 12 "worst" pharmacies in Washington.

"I wouldn't feel safe going there," Gains said. "This guy is unethical. He's not selling naps and bolts, he's selling regulated drugs, prescription drugs...drugs that are vital to your health. This guy is playing games," he said.

The PIRG survey discovered a number of "games" that pharmacists play, according to Gains. He said area pharmacists' lack of professional ethics and desire for profits played a major role in decreasing the quality of pharmaceutical services available to consumers.

PIRG surveyed 30 D.C. pharmacies for price discrepancies and unethical practices, purchasing the drugs with PIRG's money and using prescriptions written by doctors aiding in the study. PIRG also surveyed 11 GW area pharmacies the same way, with the finances coming from an "unidentified donor".

Gains said.

An example of what Gains termed "unethical substitutional practices" occurred six out of ten times at Townhouse, although several other pharmacies were also guilty. Gains said most drugs have brand names and they also have a generic substitute, which is exactly the same drug but without any brand name, such as penicillin and Pen-Vee-K.

Gains pointed out the unethical substitution occurs when the pharmacist fills the prescription with a generic substitute, but charges the brand name price which is generally much higher. He also said the prescription is sometimes mislabeled, altogether, and the consumer is led to believe they have purchased the brand name.

Gains emphasized PIRG was not against the use of generic drugs to fill prescriptions because they are less expensive and there is no difference between the name brand drugs. The PIRG study recommends that doctors prescribe the cheaper drug. Gains said, but "if someone thinks they are getting one thing and they aren't, it's simply unethical."

"The basic thing we'd like to stress is from the results we've gotten here, the pharmacists is a merchant, not a professional," Gains asserted. He said consumers place a large amount of trust in the pharmacist and their evidence dissuades that trust.

Another category in which area pharmacies were found to be negligent, according to Gains, was product adulteration. Forty-one out of 60 prescriptions that required special packaging to prevent decomposition were not given the proper container. Decomposition could significantly reduce the drug's effectiveness, said Gains.

One of the prescriptions filled at the 11 area pharmacies required special packaging to prevent children's use and nine of the 11 failed to conform to pharmaceutical regulations, which is a federal offense.

Wide discrepancies in pricing also occurred frequently within the area pharmacies, with 60 capsules of Gatrison selling for $3.03 at Dart Drug and $5.75 at Townhouse. The price of the total market basket differed from a low $23.50 at Dart Drugs to the $44.10 charged directly across the street at Bialeks on Eye St.

Gains urged students to request their doctors prescribe generic drugs and tell them what the price should be so they could check the pharmacists' price.

Meat Boycott Strikes GW, Area Meat Sales Suffer

by Ron Ostroff
Hatchet Staff Writer

GW students joined area consumers in this week's national meat boycott, causing meat purchases by local supermarkets, as well as Macke services to decline between 30 and 40 percent, while area restaurants reported "business as usual."

John Lawrence, GW's Macke food services director, explained in an interview yesterday, that there has been a decline in the sale of hamburgers and red meats in the first floor Center cafeteria.

"We have noticed a reduction in hamburger sales and an increase in the sale of grilled cheese and fish sandwiches in the cash operation," Lawrence said.

Lawrence, who said he was "generally" having a meatless week, added, "something should be done to let the government know what the public, in general, thinks about the rising prices."

Concerning Macke's reaction to the boycott, Lawrence said, "In the board cafeteria, we always make sure that there is a fish or poultry item available for those students participating in the boycott."

Lawrence said he didn't think the boycott would really have any effect unless it went on longer than one week. "If it would go on for a month or so," he said, "people would know that housewives are really serious."

Most area restaurants have not felt the meat boycott thus far. The director of advertising and public relations for Auger Enterprises (Blackie's World Restaurants) said, "Business has been very, very good...because the media is continually stressing a boycott of supermarkets and have never mentioned the restaurants."

Albert Ablulhosh, manager of the Prime Beef House on 18th Street NW claimed, "Meat prices are up because the dollar went down. If the dollar goes up in value, not only the meat prices but everything will go down in price."

All restaurants contacted agreed the grocery stores and the farmers would be the ones who would be hurt by the boycott.

GW Junior Marc Needelman said he was having a meatless week because "I believe that a collective action is necessary to set the producers on notice that we refuse to put up with these prices."

Russell Dawson, a freshman, explained he was eating meat this week "because if I didn't, I wouldn't be eating very much...they don't provide much of an alternative here (at Macke)."

"It doesn't make sense," said Junior Brent Budowsky. "Macke is buying the meat anyway. The battle should have been waged a month ago" (before the meat was purchased.) "If this had been done, I would have supported the boycott."

One sophomore explained he wasn't participating in the boycott because "people have to realize the totality of their actions. It is obvious that businesses will never assume losses that can be passed on to the consumer."

"You can't really boycott meat," he continued, "because the meat is there and it is going to go bad and in the long run people are going to have to pay for the meat they didn't eat in the first place."

Other reasons for not eating meat ranged from "because everyone else is" to a student who

by John Buchanan
Asst. News Editor

Santonia F. Butler, acquitted defendant in two alleged sexual assaults on the GW campus in February, 1971, has again repudiated a confession linking him to those alleged assaults, and has accused an assistant U.S. attorney and a police detective with coercion in obtaining that confession.

In a sworn deposition filed with lawyers engaged in a civil suit against GW stemming from the case, Butler repudiated most of the confession made before a U.S. District Court grand jury in January following his acquittal in the case.

In a statement to the Hatchet immediately after his acquittal last November, Butler denied making an earlier confession to Det. Frederick Cain of the D.C. Sex Squad six days after his arrest. That alleged confession, contained Cain's testimony given in the absence of the jury, at Butler's trial was ruled as hearsay and inadmissible evidence.

The deposition, which does not become official court record until Butler reads and signs the final version, is said to charge that Cain and Assistant U.S. Attorney Herbert Hoffman coerced Butler into giving the confession before the grand jury by saying he would be returned to jail and charged with more unsolved rapes.

Hoffman called Butler's statements "obviously false" Monday night. He had no further comment due to the continuing grand jury investigation of GW's role in the case. Butler could not be reached for comment.

The deposition was given to lawyers representing the woman involved in the Lisner incident. The woman is suing GW for $5 million and campus security guard Charles B. Finney for $2.5 million, claiming negligence on the part of the university in the case.

In the deposition, Butler is said to repudiate testimony given to the grand jury that corroborated the woman's version of the alleged assault.

According to one report of the deposition, Butler stated the woman involved in the second assault had made a date with him for that night.

Butler is also reported to have stated that the complainant in the first alleged assault beckoned to him from the women's room, where, she has charged the assault took place.

New Chairmen Named by PB

by Gregory Simpkins
Asst. News Editor

In their first action since taking office this week, the newly elected Program Board officers appointed chairmen for six positions, which included two new posts.

The arts coordinator position was divided into three separate categories this year: film chairman, performing arts chairman and an art gallery chairman, who will be appointed at a later time. The concerts, political affairs, public relations and social committee chairmanships had previously existed.

Chairpersons Gary Hirsch (Films), Maryann Gula (Performing Arts), Wayne Price (Concerts), Bob Thien (Political Affairs), Iris Mileikowsky (Public Relations) and Susan Bailey (Social) are to take their positions April 9.

They were chosen by the consensus of Board Chairman Scott Sklar, new Vice-Chairman Tara McCarthy, out-going Vice-Chairman Michelle Weiner, Treasurer Jeff Leiter and Janet Wilson, program coordinator for the Student Activities Office in a closed meeting Monday night.

According to Sklar, the film, performing arts and art gallery positions had been under the jurisdiction of arts coordinator. The position was divided to give them a vote on Board policy. "They did the work, but had no say," explained Sklar.

The Black People's Union (BPU) had shown some interest in exerting influence in programming, because of what one member referred to as "a lot of problems with the Program Board over entertainment."

However, only one BPU member, Steve Miller, petitioned for a position on the Board, Sklar said. "But he never came back for his interview," he added.

In an earlier statement, Miller said that no Program Board events were directed to black students. "They cater to predominantly white students," he stressed.

Former BPU President Kofi Asinor agreed, stating the Board has been remiss in considering "the needs and desires of the black people who work and go to classes at GW - the people who make up the majority of the entire city population."

Two other blacks applied for Board positions, Tyrone O'Neil, who was not selected, and Susan Bailey, who was chosen Social Chairperson. She is affiliated with the BPU, but is not considered an active member.

Medical School Professor, GW Personnel Chief Die

Dr. Howard E. Ticktin, 45, GW Medical School professor and one of the country's leading liver specialists, died unexpectedly in Rome of an apparent heart attack Tuesday.

The Washington specialist was vacationing with his wife Janet after a trip to Israel, where he had given a medical lecture.

Ticktin had headed the GW Medical Alumni Association from 1962-63, and from 1965-67 was chairman of the association's Alumni Giving program, which helped finance new medical school facilities.

He had been chief of GW's medical service at D.C. General Hospital from 1958 to 1970 and former associate director of the medical school's division of gastroenterology (the study of diseases and pathology of the stomach and intestines). He was still an associate clinical professor and active teacher at the time of his death.

Born in Cleveland, Ticktin graduated from GWU Medical School with distinction in 1954 and received advanced training at GW, D.C. General Hospital and the Harvard University medical service at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, Boston.

He is survived by his wife, of 6500 Bradley Blvd., Bethesda; three children, Nancy, John and Richard; and his mother, Mae Ticktin of Miami.

on Monday evening, April 2, 1973.

Bacon came to GW from the American Red Cross where he had served for 18 years, first as a training assistant, then as an employee relations officer and finally as an eastern area director of personnel.

He was active in a number of community programs including the United Givers Fund; the Conference of Institutional Administrators; Summer Jobs for Needy Youth, of which he was chairman last year; and the Metropolitan Washington Board of Trade Employment and Education Bureau on which he served as a member of the executive committee.

During the period following

Hurricane Agnes last June, he spent two weeks of his vacation working with the Red Cross in flood-ravaged areas of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Bacon, a graduate of the Oxford School of Business Administration, Cambridge, Massachusetts, served as a psychiatric technician in the U.S. Navy from 1942-45. During Bacon's naval service in World War II, he was one of the first persons to work in psychodrama at St. Elizabeth's Hospital to rehabilitate military personnel for discharge and return to civilian life.

He is survived by his wife, Loretta, and his two sons, Wallace, 25, and William, 18.

explained he was abstaining from the meat at Macke out of choice and necessity. He said, "I'm not going to eat those blatz burgers no matter what week it is."

Students seemed to be divided as to whether the purpose of the boycott was to drive meat prices down in itself or was just a symbolic gesture to show consumer power.

Freshman Art Levene said that in addition to bringing attention to the high meat prices, "It is quite unfortunate, but it is also a publicity campaign for congressmen who haven't been seen on television for a while."

Dave Klinger, a junior, said, "This one week is just a demonstration to enlighten people that the prices of meat are too high. If people start cutting down to eating meat only two or three days a week, demand will go down and the industry will have to lower prices to stay in business."

Freshman Steve Kraus explained his theory, stating, "Now that the war is over, there has to be something for all those newsmen to do. It is much easier to put a few meat packers out on the street, who only make a few thousand a year, rather than to have Brinkley and Cronkite begging for bread and stories on the street."

Cherry Blossom Festival April 7,8

The GW Cherry Blossom Crafts Festival, sponsored by both the GW General Alumni Association and the Program Board, will be held this weekend, April 7-8, from noon to 5 p.m. on H Street between 21st and 22nd Streets N.W.

Coinciding with the first two days of Washington's annual Cherry Blossom Festival, the GW event will herald the coming of Spring with music, refreshments, and crafts produced by area artisans which will be available for display and purchase.

The refreshments will include cherry pie and ice cream and local musicians will provide the entertainment.

Administrators go to Conference

Three members of the GW Administration will be participants in workshop panels of the annual National Association of Student Personnel Administrators (NASPA) Conference to be held in Philadelphia on April 8-11, 1973.

William P. Smith, GW vice president for student affairs, will be involved in a workshop dealing with the topic "Can a Campus Survive Without Student Government?" with several other college administrators.

Ken Bumgarner, assistant to vice president Smith, and David G. Speck, director of student activities, will discuss "Humanizing Campus Discipline: A Model for a Simplified Student Judicial System" in another panel.

The NASPA Conference will be attended by more than 1500 student affairs administrators and deans from the country's various universities and colleges.

New Staff Selected

In a meeting last week, the 1972-73 Hatchet editorial staff selected the new staff for next year.

Editor-In-Chief Anders Gyllenhaal, who was approved two weeks ago by the Publications Committee, and subsequently approved by President Lloyd H. Elliott placed names in nomination for twelve editorial positions. All were passed unanimously by the outgoing editorial staff.

Newly-elected Managing Editor Brad Manson, Editorial Page Editor Michele Deschenes, News Editors David Goldstein and David Rosenbaum, Arts Editor Scott Bliss, Sports Editor Drew Trachtenberg and Photography Editor Mark Babushkin assume their positions along with four assistant editors: John Buchanan and Greg Simpkins (News) and Bruce Cahan and Joanne Smoler (Photography). David Leaf will remain as business manager until May.

Several positions were left unfilled until next semester, including an associate editor, two copy editors and assistant sports editor.

A news editor and an assistant work with each paper, one each for the Monday paper and one each for the Thursday paper.

Anyone wishing to work for the paper as a reporter or photographer or apply for one of the unfilled editorial positions next semester is welcome to come in and talk to someone in Center 433.

Picket Lines to Form; Protesting President Thieu, Visit to Capital

by David Goldstein
News Editor

The "need to alert the American people to the dangers of continued U.S. involvement in Vietnam," was the desire expressed by both National Peace Action Coalition (NPAC) and Student Mobilization Committee (SMC) spokesmen in a press conference Tuesday morning informing the media of the protest against South Vietnam's President Nguyen van Thieu's visit to the Capital.

Co-ordinator of NPAC Abe Bloom stated, "Thieu's visit to the U.S., his meetings with Nixon on the West Coast and his presence in Washington on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week will be protested by peace groups throughout the country."

Picket lines will be formed in Atlanta, Chicago, Denver, Cleveland, Los Angeles and other cities. There will also be a protest in front of the Saigon Mission to the U.N. in New York City on Thursday.

In Washington, the impending protest has been directed by the Washington Area Peace Action Coalition (WAPAC), an affiliate of NPAC, and the SMC.

On Thursday, April 5, a picket line will be staged in front of the White House from 4:30 to 6:00 p.m., followed by a rally in Lafayette Park from 6-6:30 p.m.

Bloom stressed that the main demands of the protest are, "U.S. out of Southeast Asia now! End support to Thieu! No U.S. imposed regimes!" There will be other banners in the picket line dealing with Nixon budget cuts, political prisoners currently being held by the Saigon government and amnesty.

The rally will be led by Father McSorley of the Catholic Peace Fellowship and speakers will include representatives from some of the 15 organizations that have endorsed the action.

Several congressmen and women have lent their support to the protest including Bella S. Abzug (Dem. N.Y.). In a statement circulated at the press conference she said, "He (Thieu) is here, I believe, to make sure that those U.S. dollars keep rolling in to maintain his corrupt clique of military terrorists."

SMC Coordinator Chuck Petrin explained at the meeting that, "The American people will be out in the streets Thursday... not to honor a hero, but to condemn a criminal."

Genet's Balcony Simulates World of Sensuous Illusions

by Karen Berman

The GW Drama Department will present "The Balcony" by Jean Genet under the direction of Dr. Sydney James from April 9 through April 14 in the Marvin Theater.

The play concerns itself with a brothel where the prostitutes are actresses who help to carry out the illusions of their customers. The struggle for power, a major motivation behind many of the characters' fantasies, receives much of the play's emphasis. As Director James points out, "Powerful people are illusions seen from a balcony."

Emphasizing this power struggle, James has used part of his $3,000 budget for a mirrored set representing man's egotistical nature, in front of which extravagantly costumed characters, sometimes as tall as eight feet, parade. At times during the play, the characters are stripped of their height and their powerful roles, as well as their extravagant clothes, to become frail, naked creatures.

Genet's answer to life, then, does not lie in the seeking of fame and power, for, ultimately, death will overtake them. Thus, the fame a man acquires during his life is nothing after his death. Instead, for Genet, the answer is "to live in the now with joy," as Dr. James paraphrased.

Because of the nature of the play, some might consider it pornography. To this assertion James replies, "It's a sensuous world; the play reflects what it sees." The play was indeed banned in many countries during the 1950's. This was mainly due, however, to "The Balcony's" amoral and revolutionary political viewpoint. Genet himself spent much of his life in prison paying for an earlier life of crime.

While Genet's theater, commonly called the "Theater of Cruelty," is layered with philosophy, it should be an enjoyable experience for the audience. Says James, "I picked this play because it has social significance. I believe in doing plays, not only to entertain, but to inform, to affect an audience so they can play their own roles in life with better understanding."

The cast of 17, along with a 17-member backstage crew, have been preparing for over a month to produce what will probably be one of GW's most engrossing and visually stimulating productions.

Campus Events Planned

The GW Chorus, directed by Stephen Prussing, will present a concert on Thursday, April 12, at 8:30 in Lisner Auditorium.

The concert features Schubert's Mass in A flat with student soloists Deborah Shaw, soprano; Deborah Stone, alto; Larry Mumford, tenor; and William Rivoir, bass, accompanied by the GW Orchestra.

The remainder of the program contains works for chamber choir by Purcell, Rossi, di Lasso, Le Jeune, Palestrina, and Freed, as well as large choral works by Billings, Gatwood, Sommerfeldt, Barber, Somers, and Rutledge. The latter work is a composition by Professor Robert Rutledge, Assistant Dean of Columbian College and a member of the English Department.

The concert is open to the public, free of charge.

The Kreeger Exhibition of Student Art will be closing at the Dimock Gallery in Lower Lisner tomorrow, April 6. The Kreeger Award for Excellence is given annually to the students exhibiting the best painting, sculpture, and print, as well as the best graduate and undergraduate paper submitted in art history.

The GW Literary Society will feature a lecture given by Professor George Winchester Stone entitled Uses and Values of a Literary Education tonight at 8:30 pm in Room 404 of the Marvin Center. Professor Stone is the former Secretary and President of the Modern Language Association, Dean and Professor at the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences at NYU, and the author of London Stage: 1747-1776.

The Program Board and the Alumni Office are sponsoring the Cherry Blossom Crafts Festival Saturday and Sunday, April 7 and 8, in the Library Quad and along H St. between 20th and 21st St. Along with demonstrations and sales of handicrafts, there will be cherry pie and ice cream, with music provided by The Reekers and Mudlick. There will also be an exhibition of pottery-making by Eastern Market Pottery, recently featured in the Washingtonian magazine. In the event of rain, the program will be held in the Ballroom on the third floor of the Marvin Center.

New Hope in the Fight Against Rice Hall

by Barry Goldstein

People often use columns in this newspaper to point out university problems. Frequently these are problems caused by an administration acting against the student interest. I am also writing about this kind of problem, but I am writing with a possible solution.

The solution is the Student Interest Committee (SIC). The students who formed this organization are sick and tired of the way this school is being run for the benefit of everyone but the students. SIC wants students to have a real influence in the running of George Washington University and wants the school administration to make the welfare of the students its number one priority.

In the past, many efforts have been made to turn this university around but all have failed. Our effort may meet a similar fate, but it's worth a try since this school's location could make it one of the most important universities in the country.

This school's administration claims that students are satisfied with the governance of the university. I'm sure any of you students who are reading this know that this is not so. You know of dozens of instances where you or a friend have been shafted by GW and you had no recourse. SIC will provide the means of expressing this in a way the university will have to listen to.

SIC is printing thousands of postcards which will be distributed on campus. We ask all member of the university community to sign the cards. They say that you will never consider making a contribution to GWU until students have real influence in running the school and the administration is attentive to student needs. The cards are addressed to SIC and can be dropped in campus mail without postage. SIC will keep a record of how many people have signed the cards and will then forward the cards to the administration. This project will be an ongoing operation until the school improves. We hope to have several hundred cards before the year ends and increase to a few thousand next year. As the total goes into the thousands the administration will have to respond.

The other major SIC project will be research into student services or lack thereof. The subjects for research will be determined by what students are interested in, but possible areas of research include the health service, housing, registrars office, academics and food service.

Very often when students make legitimate complaints or suggestions they are told improvement is impossible. If we have the facts from research to prove these improvements are possible the administration may be embarrassed into making appropriate improvements.

I'd like to use this opportunity to address a word to Dr. Elliott and the administration. SIC can work with you to improve the school or we can fight you to improve the school. This choice will be up to you and how you cooperate. The only thing we cannot do is accept the status quo of rule by and for administrative and business interests.

Now a word to the students. This is your committee and if you support it we can turn this university around. If you don't trust the health service, think registration can be easier or have had other chances to get shafted by this university then you should support SIC. If you won't at least sign one of the cards, you have no right to complain when you get shafted.

For those of you who want to get involved in improving this school SIC is your golden opportunity.

SIC is a new organization and as such there are no cliques running the show. Your influence on the organization will be determined only by what you put into it. We need people to serve on the executive committee and coordinate SIC's work. We need people to work on getting people to sign the cards. We need people to do research on student services and publicize the results.

Anyone interested in SIC should contact me at 676-7312 or 785-1479.

Barry Goldstein is Chairman of the Political Affairs Committee of the Program Board and the founding member of SIC.

Change in Dorm Life Needed

by The Special Interest Floor Committee

Do you ever get the feeling that the intellectual atmosphere at GW leaves a lot to be desired? Do you ever want to discuss something you heard about in class? Do you wish you could take more advantage of the resources of Washington, D.C.? If so, you may be able to take advantage of an experimental program now being offered to GW students—provided you act quickly.

Next fall, an experimental Special Interest Floor will be established in Mitchell Hall as an optional residence living situation. This Special Interest Floor, created and planned by a group of students in conjunction with the Dean of Students Office, is now being offered to all students who have a broad interest in the American Political Environment and the Washington, D.C. Area. This living situation is not an academic course and there is no necessary major to qualify. In fact, students with a variety of majors and perspectives can share this common interest.

But just how can this alternative to the present life in the dorms improve GW's intellectual atmosphere? The Special Interest Floor will bring together a community of individuals who share a broad, common interest, with the goal of more fully utilizing the unique resources of Washington, D.C. as well as providing an atmosphere supportive to individual inquiry and group discussion. It will provide a forum for the sharing of ideas, talents, and interests.

Such interaction based on common interest will take the form of excursions by floor members to see places of interest and hear speakers from governmental and non-governmental organizations. Also included will be forms of student-faculty interaction, such as seminars, study groups, discussion groups on books of common interest, etc. Of special value will be the informal, spontaneous interactions resulting from a community of interested and committed residents. In short, the Special Interest Floor will broaden the experiences of dormitory living and allow the dorm to be a place to think and discuss as well as a place to live.

Simply naming the Special Interest Floor and letting things happen will not produce results. Students must be committed to making the floor work. This will mean taking responsibility for programming, adopting an open attitude toward free expressions and communication of ideas, and developing a sense of community.

If you would be interested in living on the Special Interest Floor next year, the time to act is now. Pick up the application form in the Dean of Students Office (4th floor, Rice Hall) and spend the fifteen minutes it takes to fill it out. If you have already participated in the housing lottery, it is not too late to switch onto the Special Interest Floor. When you make your room selection for the floor, the $100 deposit you have already paid will be credited to your account. The deadline for application to the Special Interest Floor, whether you presently live on or off campus is Wednesday, April 18. Questions should be referred to the Dean of Students Office.

planation of why no further meetings have been called.

Presidents and Dorm Councils can and have interacted successfully without a poorly functioning and ineffective RHA. This is not to say that we disagree with the concept of a residence hall association; we don't. In fact, it can be an excellent forum for student exchange if given the right form of leadership. Hopefully, next year's group, if one exists, will benefit by the mistakes of this year's group.

Put your body where your mind is American's Waayfarer summer tours to take you away from it all.

If you're looking forward to going away this summer, but don't have much money, we've got summer tours you'll be interested in and a brochure that tells you all about them.

You can backpack in Arizona, hike or camp in Hawaii; see the sights of New York, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Washington, D.C., and Honolulu; and body surf in San Juan or Acapulco. Some tours are three days, and some are a week.

Tour prices include rooming, entertainment and some meals. Or there are special rates for hotels only. If you've got our Waayfarer club card, you'll be able to save money on the air fare and many other attractions. (Card valid till your 22nd birthday.) And if you go to Los Angeles or San Francisco and want to stay at one of our three youth hostels, it'll be only $5 a night. And wherever you're going we'll fly your bike out for a small charge.

For more information write for a copy of the Waayfarer Experiences* the Waayfarer Center, American Airlines, 633 3rd Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10017.

We can't give you the money to go someplace, but we can give you someplace to go on the money you have.

Wampler Blanks AU, 4-0

Jodie Wampler continued his mound mastery for GW on Tuesday as he hurled the Colonials to a 4-0 victory over American.

The seven-hit performance by Wampler thrilled the highly partisan home crowd of five that thronged the field at 16th and Kennedy Sts.

The victory, evening the Buff's spring record at 3-3, marked the return to action for Coach Bill Smith. He had been hospitalized recently to undergo an operation; the win has greatly abetted his recovery.

GW collected three runs in the second inning off of AU star Rich Fleshman. This was more than Wampler needed, who struck out seven and was hardly ever in trouble, to keep him from losing his shutout.

The Colonials scoring began with a one out walk to Wampler in the second. Pete Albert reached base on a fielders choice grounder and advanced on a walk to Tim Holmberg. Center fielder Mike Toomey knocked in the first run for GW with a line single to left.

Albert scored on the play as he reached the plate at the same time as the throw from the outfield, but jarred the ball loose from the catcher. Kevin Bass followed with a routine fly ball down the left field line, but Eagle outfielder Rich Meth had trouble with the sun and tried to catch the ball with his stomach. He didn't. Two more GW runs scored.

The Buff added another in the fifth inning after Mark Sydnor, who reached base all four plate appearances, doubled to left. Two outs later Sydnor scored on a single by Albert.

Pat Pontius will hurl for the Colonials today when they host Navy.

Rains Halt Tennis

I'm looking for rain on Friday, too," admitted tennis Coach Pierce Kelley, anticipating the worst in his team's upcoming match with Columbia, the number one rated squad in the East.

The team (2-6) was rained out of a scheduled match with Penn State yesterday. In their last outing Sunday the Colonials were defeated by Hampton Institute, 8-1. Mike Friedman, playing fourth singles, picked up the only GW win.

Due to inter-squad competition over the last week, the Colonials have undergone some line-up changes. Sandy Schwartz, just starting to return to top form after suffering through a series of injuries, will take over the first singles spot.

Freshman standout Marty Hublitz will serve from the number two spot, followed respectively by Ed Kahn, Friedman, Jan Sickler, and Mitch Sussman.

If the team can survive this week's tough schedule, Kelley expects the squad's fortunes to rise as the competition eases. "We've been realizing improvement and should definitely salvage something, possibly even a winning season," commented Kelley.

Sports Shorts: Open Gym, IM's

The Men's Gymnasium will be open to students on the following evenings: April 6, 11, 12, 13, 16, 17, 18, 19, and 20 from 8 to 11 p.m.; from 9 to 11 on April 9 and 10 from 6 to 11 on the 15th. Tonight the gym will be available for volleyball from 7 to 8:30 and for basketball from 8:30 until 11. The gym is closed on Saturday.

In the intramural basketball final, the B league champion Technocrats downed their A league counterparts, French Underground, 52-42. Jim Howard led all scorers with 24 points. The Technocrats lost, however, in the first round of extramural play.

There will be a meeting next Tuesday for all those interested in wrestling on next year's squad in the conference room of the Athletic Office, 2035 H St., at 4 p.m. If unable to attend, but interested, contact Coach Mark Furlane (337-5421).

Star athletes Jodie Wampler (baseball) and Ken Garber (soccer) have been chosen to appear in the 1973 edition of Outstanding College Athletes of America, an annual awards volume published to honor America's finest collegiate athletes.

Summersplit. For $3.00 we'll cut the ties that bind.

Summersplit. An out. An out of the apartment, room, landlord, lease, or roommate you don't want this summer. Summersplit. A guide. To be consulted by people who need to get into an apartment, room, or roommate. Summersplit. An alternative. To paying for an ad, hassling with real estate agents, giving your landlord a half a month's rent. Summersplit. An added dimension. Because the apartment, room, and roommate listings become available both locally and nationally. In short, if you have an apartment or share an apartment you don't want this summer, Summersplit is the answer.

Summersplit starts out as a questionnaire. You fill in what it is you have and you send it to us with $3. In April (with the help of a computer) your apartment, room, or roommates become a part of the Summersplit guide. This guide will be available free in over 1000 college housing offices, libraries, and bookstores across the country. In addition, interested people can also send for individual city sections of their own at minimal cost.

What Summersplit comes down to is a very available, very specialized, very useful directory. For $3 you'll be contacting literally thousands of people who need an apartment, room, or roommate where you are. Look for our flyers (or get one from your housing office or send us the coupon below). That will be your first step toward getting away from where you don't want to be this summer and getting to where you do. That just has to be worth $3 to you.

"A college degree isn't the only answer!"

A degree can't hurt you... but some of today's best jobs require specialized training. That's why more college grads, veterans, and recent high school graduates turn to Computer Learning Center. We train more people on IBM computers than any other area school; placed graduates with over 300 organizations.
